Grade 5 and 6 students at Haliburton Highlands Senior Elementary School worked six weeks in advance preparing a play, called 'Free to be You and Me', which was presented last Thursday and Friday at the school.

The play involved a number of different skits and lasted 45 minutes. It was presented by the school's drama club.

Committees selected for new tourist season

Chamber sets objectives

The Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce has set its objectives and selected its committees for 1978-79.

Tourist promotion of Haliburton County is still the main objective and will not only include transient tourists, but seasonal residents as well with an emphasis on "off season trade", according to a press release from Chamber Manager, Bob Stinson.

Programs will be developed to help upgrade skills and knowledge in the County among tourist operators and the business community to improve their competitive position with those outside the County, he said. "The Chamber will also attempt to monitor and respond to government at all levels as it affects County businesses and co-operate with councils in any way possible to help attract light industry to the County."

A major tourist attraction is still viewed as an important asset to work, explained Stinson, and the Chamber will continue to work in that direction.

"Considerable emphasis this year will be placed on improving the Chamber's financial position which in turn will increase the effectiveness of its projects," he said.

Directors Ed Elias, Ann Lee and Bruce Henry make up the advertising and promotion committee, which will be immediately concerned with this year's Chamber promotional book and directory. "Several meetings have already been held in this regard and the Chamber office is presently circulating the advertising order forms for this year's all new book," said Stinson. "Next the committee will be working to develop a full marketing action plan for the entire year which will include promotion to encourage not only tourists but summer residents and full-time residents to support our local economy."

A business development committee consisting of Marshall Leighton, Don Nye and Barbara Bolin will be working to help growth and development of existing businesses as well as searching out areas of opportunities for new ones. "Close liaison is intended between this committee and any businessmen's associations that are formed in Minden and Haliburton," said the Chamber manager. "With both villages considering possible business improvement area programs this committee could be a very busy one."

Seminars, such as the very successful Crime Prevention seminar, will be another important function of the committee, explained Stinson. They will be searching out new ideas for a comprehensive education program for the business community.

A tourism committee of Bill Smith and Bob Patton will be working closely with Central Ontario Travel Association to explore and develop ways of increasing the association's effectiveness in general and specially as it relates to the development of tourism in Haliburton County. "This committee of course will work closely with the advertising promotion committee to develop an off season promotional campaign," revealed the Chamber manager. "This committee will also be concerned with developing seminars as they relate to our tourism membership."

A government affairs committee will be headed by Tim Casey, who will be concerned with keeping abreast of legislative and other general changes and trends that may affect our economic development and deciding a course of action to be taken where necessary. "Tim will be anxious to set up communication lines with the Chamber membership to obtain their feelings and concerns on government matters," said Stinson.

Rhonda Elstone heads the finance committee, which in addition to keeping a watchful eye on the finances of the Chamber, will be looking for ways and means of improving that picture, he explained. "This may range from running fund-raising programs to increasing the profitability of some of the Chamber services that are now offered."

The management committee, which forms the executive of the Chamber, consists of president John Hogg, vice-president Jim McLean and past president Dennis Waymouth. One member of the management committee sits in on all other committee functions to provide liaison throughout the board of directors.

President Hogg stressed at the directors meeting that all committee should be actively searching out interested individuals other than board members to serve on their committees. Most Chambers in larger centres function in such a way that working on a committee would be a prerequisite to becoming a Chamber director, he said. Any members of the community who are interested in offering their time or expert-

County council obtains okay from Provincial Treasurer

Ministry to undertake County economic study

An economic development study will be undertaken in Haliburton County by the Ministry of Treasury and Economics, revealed Ontario Treasurer Frank Miller in a letter to members of county council last Wednesday.

Council members have apparently been working diligently behind the scenes for several months now to secure the study from the Ministry. The study, which is expected to get underway later this month, will involve two full-time staff from the Ministry in the collection of data for the document. It will focus on the growing recreation and tourism industry in Haliburton County. Rural and resource development, such as uranium prospects in the County's southwest region, will also be analyzed.

"In preparing the study," stated the Treasurer in his letter, "my staff point out that although the County has a past history of lumbering and mining, Haliburton today depends more on the growing recreation and tourism sector and this would likely be the focus of the study."

The study will document current County trends, present a general assessment of future economic development and forward a number of recommendations for local action. It is expected to take eight to 12 weeks to complete the document.

It is expected to provide additional information which would add more insight in development by coupling it with the already approved development strategy.

The strategy, which was approved by members of county council earlier this month, predicts slow growth in the county over the next 10 to 15 years with a projected population increase of 1,000 to 1,300 persons predicted. It contains three main objectives. The first aim is the development of policies for the conservation and management of natural resources in the County. The second objective is to shift the emphasis away from the traditional consent granting approach to lot creation towards lots in registered plans of subdivision. The third aim is the development of policies and guidelines for new residential, commercial and industrial land uses.

"At the outset, I think it is important to recognize that it is unlikely that the study will come up with any dramatic new development proposals for the County and its undertaking should not raise great expectations," stated the Treasurer. "Instead my staff will most probably produce recommendations on a number of smaller initiatives that could facilitate more effective growth in today's tough economic, employment and fiscal climate."

Ministry staff will be interviewing tourist operators, recreational developers, councillors and businessmen during the compiling of data for the study.

Haliburton County Warden Keith Tallman feels the study will benefit the County's future development. "We certainly need it (the study)," he told the Echo in an interview.

The study, he explained, will serve to enlighten the federal government to the need for the County to obtain Department of Regional and Economic Expansion (DREE) funding.

Members of county council have been seeking financial assistance from the federal government by outlining the need for DREE funding in Haliburton County.

"We may be able to obtain DREE funding with the help

Expansion underway at PineStone Inn

A major expansion of current facilities is underway at PineStone Inn near Haliburton.

Included in the work is the enlargement of the dining room and cocktail lounge, conversion of the present outdoor swimming pool to an indoor facility, construction of a new outdoor pool, addition of new rooms, a new conference facility, games room and new administrative offices.

"Activity at the hotel has been such that our board of directors and management committee all agreed that expansion now was a top priority," revealed Wren Blair, President of One-2-One Corporation, which owns and operates the PineStone today.

The facility was constructed in 1976 and includes a nine-hole golf course and tennis facilities.

"Currently we are expanding our cocktail lounge and dining room 24 feet forward towards the water," explained Blair. "The dining room will be sunken 18 inches in the new addition, creating a two-level room with additional seating for an estimated 50 to 60 people."

When the expansion is completed, he said, the facility will be able to accommodate between 125 and 135 people for dinner or lunch at each sitting.

"The cocktail lounge will be complete with a new stage for entertainment together with a dance floor at the new end of the room," said Blair. "The lounge, which now seats about 70, will accommodate over 125 people."

The present swimming pool will be enclosed, he explained. "This will give an even greater dimension for PineStone's growing conference and vacation business in the fall and winter months."

A new and larger outdoor pool is now being built directly in front of the cocktail lounge and dining room on the edge of PineStone Lake, he explained. When completed, it will have a large terrace and deck around it.

A second phase of expansion will commence next spring, which will include construction of between 15 and 25 new rooms, a new and larger conference room, a new games and activity room and new administrative offices.

A Toronto firm, Stephenson Construction, is undertaking the work. Architect Gordon Ridgley, who designed the initial phase, is involved in the expansion plans.

Hospitals meeting set for November 30

A public meeting to review and discuss the recommendations of the Red Cross organization concerning the hospitals in Haliburton and Minden will be conducted November 30 at 7:30 p.m. at the PineStone Inn.

Representatives of the Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge District Health Council will be hosting the meeting and members of the general public are invited to attend and comment.

Last spring, a study commissioned by the Canadian Red Cross Hospitals Board recommended a change in the roles of the Haliburton and Minden hospitals. The study envisions expansion of services at Haliburton and a significant change in the role of the hospital at Minden. It would be converted to a clinic facility offering regular ambulatory patient services, along with some special services such as physiotherapy and a consulting nutritionist. The burden of in-patient hospital care would be shifted to the Haliburton hospital. The study recommended closer co-operation between the medical staff in both communities.

The major recommendation of the study is full co-ordination of the medical and hospital services in Minden and Haliburton.

The study examined the 10 hospitals in the province that are owned and operated by the Red Cross.

Ontario Hydro crews kept busy by weekend wind storm

Ontario Hydro crews from Minden worked from Friday night through part of Saturday repairing power lines in Haliburton County which had been broken by trees and branches that were tossed about during a violent wind storm last weekend.

A small transformer station at West Guilford was knocked out by a tree and power was off in the area for several hours, said Hydro Manager at Minden, Doug Campbell.

He said his 22-member line crew were kept busy repairing broken power lines throughout the County. No widespread power break occurred, he explained, but a series of minor breaks occurred in various locations of the County.

An Environment Canada official at Peterborough said the high winds were reaching 40 miles an hour and were travelling in a southwesterly direction.

Ministry of Transportation and Communications crews report a few limbs were removed Saturday off highways in the County, but no

Bravery awards were presented to Darlene McKnight and Jim Harrison in Peterborough last Monday by Ontario Provincial Police Commissioner, Harold Graham. The St. John's citations were awarded because the pair saved an 11-year-old girl and her nine-year-old brother from drowning on August 25, 1977 in the Big East River at Huntsville. McKnight and Harrison were camping with their families at the Silver Sand Trailer Park. Harrison is a non-swimmer.

Police pleased at turnout

Seminar attracts crowd

Provincial constable Wim Magee was smiling last Wednesday.

He was smiling because a capacity crowd jammed the conference room at the PineStone Inn to listen to a crime prevention seminar. The community services officer for the Minden detachment of the provincial police said he was "most amazed and very pleased" at the turnout.

The seminar, which was initiated by the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce in co-operation with the OPP and the PineStone Inn, was designed to inform merchants in the area of various ways of preventing crimes such as shoplifting, fraud, credit card misuse and counterfeiting.

A similar seminar was held last June, but only 25 persons attended. Constable Magee had said then that he had been "shocked" at how few showed up. Last Wednesday, close to 100 merchants jammed the room.

With constable Magee at the seminar was provincial constable Mike Mahar from the Minden detachment and Rick Morrison, who is from the Community Services Branch at OPP Headquarters in Toronto.

Shoplifting was discussed first at the seminar. "Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars are lost to shoplifters each year in this country - prosecution may be the answer," said constable Magee.

He added that "there are criminal offences occurring and there are criminal agencies in this area which nobody is making use of."

A film was shown on internal theft occurring within companies, and a discussion was held on the subject afterwards.

Morrison said that if "physical confrontations" with a suspected thief were inevitable, "there is no way you would have to get into a physical fight. Use a bit of common sense, but the law says that you can use what physical force is needed to stop a person."

Constable Mahar suggested to "keep everyone in the store aware of shoplifters, and have everyone know what to do in case a thief is spotted."

Constable Magee pointed out that the OPP will soon begin "Operation Providence", a program which will aid police in the identification of stolen goods. Numbers will be assigned to each store, and, if the store owner wishes, he may stamp as many products with the number as he sees fit. The result - easier identification of stolen goods.

Credit cards, frauds and cheques were discussed next. "We've had a great deal to do with cheques since the last seminar," pointed out constable Magee.

Techniques that fraud artists use were shown in a film, and was discussed afterwards. Forcing fraud artists with stolen credit cards or bad cheques to wait for some time while a cheque is made on him, "is a good way of making them sweat for a little while," said Mahar.

Fraud artists will often

Reeve Nesbitt wants highways re-examined

Stanhope Township Reeve Sinc Nesbitt wants the provincial government to re-examine the designations of the highways in Haliburton County.

He wants the Ministry of Transportation and Communications to upgrade the designations of Highways 35 and 121. Changing the designations to a more priority class of highway will help the economy of the County by improving the main access routes, he said.

Reeve Nesbitt was responding to a letter from Transportation and Communications Minister James Snow, which was read to members of county council last Wednesday.

Snow was replying to a letter from council last September regarding entrances on provincial highways.

"In response to your September 28, 1978, request, I have looked at our access policies as they relate to Provincial Highways in the of the study," said Warden Tallman.

The primary objective of DREE is to encourage slow-growth regions of the country to realize their potential. Through the Regional Development Incentives Act, the department is able to provide incentives to industry and business to invest in slow-growth areas and create improved opportunities for productive employment.

Warden Tallman feels the study will benefit present industries, such as lumbering, by providing a greater insight into the potential which may exist and the need for government funding. Tourist operators and members of the business community will also profit from the document, which is expected to be completed in February or March of 1979, he added.

The study, he said, will likely provide more insight into mineral development in Haliburton County. A uranium source is located in Glamorgan Township, he revealed.

"I am very much interested in the mineral resource development potential," he said.

County of Haliburton," he said. "As explained in my February 1, 1978, letter regarding consent applications on Provincial Highways, our highway system is divided into five groups for access control purposes. No new direct access can be permitted within the first two groups (Freeway/Expressway and Staged Freeway/Expressway), but we are willing to

Township to outlaw pits and quarries

Pits and quarries will not be permissible in the Township of Galway-Cavendish in the near future.

Township council decided at its November 11 meeting to draw up a bylaw against the establishment and operation of pits and quarries.

A bylaw to regulate the operation of pits and quarries will also be prepared because 75 per cent of the land in Cavendish is owned by the Ministry of Natural Resources. If the Ministry were to create a pit or quarry on its property, the municipality would have a bylaw to regulate it.

Council supported severance applications from Ken Haliburton man convicted of indecent assault

A 59-year-old Haliburton resident, Stanley Roberts, was convicted of a reduced charge of indecent assault on a 19-year-old Haliburton woman in Victoria-Haliburton County Court in Lindsay, November 8.

Roberts, who was originally charged with attempted rape, will be sentenced at Lindsay, December 7. He was charged following an incident last April.

Judge Lloyd Woods placed a ban against publication of information before and during the three-day trial.

Five month jail sentence given area resident

A 36-year-old Highland Grove resident, Fred Stanley Harvey, was sentenced to five months in jail in Victoria-Haliburton County Court November 14 after being convicted in October of criminal negligence causing bodily harm and driving while under suspension.

He was charged by Apsley provincial police following a two-car accident August 18, 1977, on Highway 648 in which five persons were injured.

Harvey also lost his driver's licence for a year as a result of the conviction.

abide by the local decision on all safe entrances to the fifth group. We felt that this range of access policies was the only way we could preserve a Provincial highway system without being too rigid on our less important highways."

Precision: He says he's no big shooter, but this expert marksman has won his share of medals

By Joe Banks Staff Writer
Concentration, precision and conditioning: these are the three main ingredients of an expert pistol marksman. All three are required to give a person the ability to hit a target the size of a quarter 50 yards away.

Dr. Jeffrey Lodenquai of Minden is a man who has that ability. The proof is in a box in his home, which is filled with various medals he has won as a Pan-American and Commonwealth Games pistol competitor.

A native of Kingston, Jamaica, Dr. Lodenquai spent several years on the pistol team in that country. He has represented Jamaica as both a competitor and coach. He moved to Canada in 1976 to take up practice in Minden, where he still lives with his wife, Marion, and their two children.

"Keep things in perspective. I'm no big shooter," Dr. Lodenquai modestly says. He prefers to keep the fact that he was once the best target shooter in Jamaica quiet. It's something he is proud of, but it's something he likes to keep "low key".

Born in a small town in Jamaica, similar to Minden, Dr. Lodenquai's interest with shooting came as a young boy of 14. He hunted with rifles or shotguns and, consequently, gained his first introduction to guns through hunting.

In university, Dr. Lodenquai attended a shooting contest, which was open to everyone, except members of the gun club on the campus.

"I won," he says, "and after that, I just went on competing, and switched to the handgun competition only."

As a member of the Jamaican shooting club, Dr. Lodenquai had the opportunity to represent his country in international competition. Starting in 1966, he had the fortune of taking part in two Pan-American games, two Commonwealth Games and several Central American and Caribbean Games.

His explanation of why he never made it to the Olympics is a simple one.

"The standards are very high in Olympic shooting. I would have to be in the top 20 shooters to even consider entering."

"The competitions are of a very, very high calibre, and I wouldn't want to defeat myself."

In the heyday of his shooting, Dr. Lodenquai took Thursdays off from his work to practise shooting. His wife often helped him practise, acting as scorer and timing him in the rapid fire category.

He says that "shooting is a lonely sport." The competition is not really between the shooter and somebody else, but often "between you and yourself," he says.

His wife had to learn how to speak Spanish, since many of the competitions were in Latin-American islands and countries in the Caribbean. Tournament trips to these countries averaged about once or twice a year.

Interestingly enough, the two best shooters in Jamaica at the time of these competitions was a doctor and a dentist, possibly, says Dr. Lodenquai's wife, "because the sport needs a disciplined sort of training; mental concentration."

And this "mental concentration" is the aspect of the sport the doctor finds most difficult with which to deal. Exercises kept the concentration flowing throughout his body and both mental and physical disciplining are necessary to "tune" the body into competition.

Dr. Lodenquai exercised his shooting hand with dumbbells and developed leg exercises. Often tiring and labourious, he says that the exercises and shooting has "helped" him in many ways.

"The sport teaches you to have a true insight into your strong points and weak points. After I've met a friend who I haven't seen in a long time, I find they try to sweep their weaknesses under the carpet. I'm happy when I find a weakness, because then I can build upon it."

"It has made me a better person," he says.

In addition to improving him spiritually, he feels that the sport relaxed him "completely".

And when he lived in Jamaica, Dr. Lodenquai, says his wife, "lived, breathed and ate shooting."

'Shooting is a lonely sport ...'

Today, he has taken on other sports such as golf, and, he says, "I have different priorities in life."

But, in conjunction with his dream of competing for Canada in shooting, he is planning on doing some practise shooting at the indoor range forms of target shooting. What Dr. Lodenquai calls the "marathon" of shooting is the free pistol competition, where the competitor has two and one half hours to fire 60 shots at a target. There are no formal rules to this competition, and participants can special case in which to carry the guns. He has taken part in all of the events involved in pistol shooting.

Safety with most shooters, says Dr. Lodenquai, "becomes second nature" because of the discipline instilled by coaches. He says that "you learn to respect it (a gun)."

Increasing gun control is something that the doctor, though his guns are registered, generally disagrees with. He says that the controls have little or no effect on the "bad guys", as is the case in Dr. Lodenquai's native Jamaica, where, he points out, "gun controls are three times more stringent than here in Canada."

Police reports had to be issued to gun owners, and to receive a report, a person often had to wait for nine or ten months to receive it. And this, though time consuming, "had no effect whatsoever," he said.

But Dr. Lodenquai is not against some form of gun control. "Controls and regu-in Lindsay. "I don't think I'll go back into hard training though."

To keep active in the sport, Dr. Lodenquai is considering starting a target shooting club in Minden. He says that he is "willing to share my experience and coach any young shooters in Minden who want to start target shooting." He is now looking at possible sites where a shooting range could be located.

Before a person begins shooting, however, he must realize that there are various 'tailor' make their gun according to their own specifications, with the calibre being the only constant factor.

A rapid fire event, where the competitor has eight seconds to hit five different targets is another form of the pistol competitions. The last Dr. Lodenquai is also involved in is the standard pistol competition, which feature both still targets and moving targets.

He has made grips for the guns he uses in the tournaments which precisely fit his hand, and he has made a

Economic Study

Undertaking an economic development study in Haliburton County by the Ministry of Treasury and Economics will provide greater insight into the economic opportunities which exist in the County.

The study, which is expected to get underway later this month, was revealed in a letter from Ontario Treasurer Frank Miller to members of County council last Wednesday. Two full-time staff from the Ministry will be involved in the collection of data for the document, which will focus on the growing recreation and tourism industry in Haliburton County. Rural and resource development, such as uranium prospects in the County's southwest region, will also be analyzed.

"In preparing for the study," stated the Treasurer in his letter, "My staff point out that although the County has a past history of lumbering and mining, Haliburton today depends more on the growing recreation and tourism sector and this would likely be the focus of the study."

The study will document current county trends, present a general assessment of future economic development and forward a number of recommendations for local action. It is expected to take eight to 12 weeks to complete the document, which will definitely compliment the development strategy of the County, which was approved earlier this month by members of county council.

"At the outset, I think it is important to recognize that it is unlikely that the study will come up with any dramatic new development proposals for the County and its undertaking should not raise great expectations," he stated. "Instead my staff will most probably produce recommendations on a number of smaller initiatives that could facilitate more effective growth in today's tough economic, employment and fiscal climate."

Ministry staff will be interviewing tourist operators, recreational developers, councillors and businessmen during the compiling of data for the study.

The document will also serve to enlighten the Federal Government to the need of the County for Department of Regional and Economic Expansion (DREE) funding.

Members of council will be able to approach federal officials with documented evidence of their needs for DREE funds. The primary objective of DREE is to encourage slow-growth regions of the Country to realize their potential. Through the Regional Development Incentives Act, the Department is able to provide incentives to industry and business to invest in slow-growth areas and thus create improved opportunities for productive employment.

The study will benefit present industries, such as lumbering, by providing a greater insight into the potential which may exist. It will also help the tourist operators and business community.

The document will serve to enhance future development in Haliburton County and create new employment opportunities.

Crime Prevention

Merchants, who attended a recent Crime Prevention Seminar, have taken the most important step required for crime prevention in society today by becoming better informed about the problem.

More than 100 interested individuals attended the Provincial Police Crime Prevention Seminar last Wednesday at PineStone Inn and received advice on how to reduce the likelihood of crime striking their businesses.

Successful prevention programs begin with public co-operation and operate successfully with interested citizens becoming involved.

Those in attendance learned three-quarters of a million dollars is lost to shoplifters each year in Canada. The province will soon launch a program called 'Operation Providence', which is designed to aid police in the identification of stolen goods. Numbers are assigned each store under the program and the merchant can stamp each product, if he or she wishes, with that number.

This type of program can aid merchants, if they take advantage of it.

Fraud artists, the seminar revealed, often ensure that the store clerk is extremely busy and will not spot a stolen credit card or bad cheque when passed. Merchants also learned that 98 per cent of all bogus money in Canada is American currency.

Those who attended the seminar are now better equipped to deal with crime than before and should take advantage of the knowledge they have gained.

It is a two-way street between the police and members of the business community to prevent crime from occurring, not just the sole job of the law enforcement agencies.

The police must receive help to prevent crime and a better informed public is a step in the right direction.

WHAT IF NOBODY CARED

What if your kids just played in the street summer and winter? What if your fatherless boy continually got into trouble with store owners, neighbours and the police? What if there was no blood when your sister needed a transfusion or not enough money to pay for her special medical treatments? What if the community and its events deteriorated? What if there weren't attractive flower beds around Clinton? What if nobody cared?

As it stands now, only a small group of people show that they care and it is questionable whether they can carry the load for the rest of the apathetic, complaining, uncaring citizens of this community. Continually, a small group of concerned and overworked citizens' attempts to keep such organizations as minor hockey, the soccer clubs, figure skating, the Kinsmen and other service clubs, the Red Cross donors, the Cancer Society, the Salvation Army, the Horticultural Society, the LACAC committee, Big Brother, Block Parents, Guides, and Scouts, the recreation committee and even the town council running.

There is an endless supply of such volunteer services and one criticism against them is their overabundance, and I wonder where we'd be without them? Undoubtedly, without them, the complaints from the users would only get louder.

The town would have to pay wages to a recreation director, there wouldn't be anything for the kids to do and higher wages would have to be offered to council members. Clinton would lose what attractive flavouring it has and people would start heading to other municipalities. These consequential results may not be too far off in the future if more co-operation and volunteers aren't found.

Too often people, not directly involved in the fundamental organization of such services take them for granted. These people use, then abuse and criticize the associations for the work they are attempting to do.

However, help is often appreciated and desperately needed by these clubs. Perhaps people should use their excess energy that is spent on complaining, on helping instead.

If some constructive help isn't offered by the parents and users soon, and end may come to many volunteer organizations in Clinton.

DOMESTIC MARKETING

Ontario's new minister of industry and tourism, Larry Grossman, says that growth in the tourist industry will depend upon attracting guests from within the province as well as from outside our borders.

Mr. Grossman told Ontario Motel Association convention in Peterborough this week that Canadians have a pretty poor track record when it comes to the area of domestic marketing. Ontario, in particular, is faced with enormous competition from tourist centres in the United States, the Caribbean and Europe.

The minister concedes that tourist operators in the province are up against a good foreign product, at a good price, but feels there is an opportunity for Ontario operators to meet the challenge and produce a marketing campaign that's designed specifically for the Ontario market.

The minister tossed his invitation to a well-versed, knowledgeable audience that will undoubtedly respond to his challenge. And when the responses come in, we're sure Mr. Grossman will take quick, firm action that is needed to strengthen the industry throughout the province.

Editor's Notebook

by Gord Lavoie

Christmas will soon be upon us like a blanket of new fallen snow and I suddenly realize that I have not done any Christmas shopping yet this Yuletide season. I must compile a list of items to pick up for my family.

When it comes to shopping, especially Christmas shopping, I am a great procrastinator. I keep stalling it off until time eventually runs out and I am forced to make my purchase from a less than ideal selection. I keep promising myself each year to start earlier (like September maybe), but always end up running around at the last minute in a desperate search to fulfil my shopping list.

I think it has to do with the lack of snow that causes me to forget it's nearly Christmas time again. In the urban areas, the commercialism of Christmas is rampant with signs, decorations and messages assaulting you constantly to buy this or that item for a loved one.

I will have to soon embark on the task of finding out just what my wife wants for Christmas and what little items the children would like to receive at Christmas.

Fortunately, the majority of the Christmas shopping is already completed. Although I am a procrastinating shopper, my wife is not. She plans well in advance and completes the task early.

But not me, of course. I am still trying to find out what to buy. My list is blank of ideas for gifts and I hate the pushing and shoving associated with shopping in the big city. I have thought in past years of making all the presents which I gave at Christmas, but, of course, the ole procrastinator strikes again. I keep postponing the idea until it is too late and end up buying the gifts.

I can foresee already what one of my New Year's resolutions should be for 1979. Maybe stores could create a line of items for the last minute shoppers like me. They could save some of their regular Christmas stock and hide it until a few days before Christmas. Somehow, I really do not see the idea catching on.

It appears I will have to give up my procrastinating and quickly make a list of purchases. Starting earlier this year to Christmas shop may become habit forming. It will be up to me to get going now. Imagine, shopping in late November and early December and not having to run around at the last minute.

The municipal elections in Haliburton County are over, the fog has been lifted and the tumult and the noise has died down. The voters have spoken and the candidates whom we have elected have the future of this county in their hands. There is a big job that lies ahead for all councils and the school board in each municipality. It's up to each and everyone of these individuals to make sure that we progress in the next two years, that we do not stay stagnant and that we try to work together as a unit in harmony and good will. There has been a great deal of progress shown in each municipality in this county, but there's still plenty more to be done yet. To those who have been elected in municipal councils and school board we offer our congratulations and for all of those who ran and were defeated we also say thank you for showing the interest to run and put your name on the ballot. In the election just past we saw many young candidates put forth their name for public office for the first time. We say to these people who were defeated, not to be discouraged, you're still young and your time will come in the future when you will make it and have the opportunity to serve whether it be on council or the school board. This past election did show us one thing that we are getting away from all of this public apathy and this was shown by the large number of candidates that ran in all municipalities.

While still on the subject of municipal elections I would like to remark that it would be good to say that we had record turnouts throughout the county but this isn't so. It was a good average vote but not a record. It's very hard for me to understand how people can sit at home and not vote in this democratic system of ours. Some people will say, well I voted but I lost my vote because their particular candidate was defeated. You didn't lose your vote if you cast your ballot on election day but you did lose it if you stayed at home and didn't come out to vote. If only half of the people on the voters list take the opportunity to vote how can we say that this is the wishes of the people or that the general public have made clear their opinions on many subjects that will effect us all. By not voting a person loses the opportunity of having his or her say on what direction they would like to see us take. In most cases all those who wouldn't take the time to get out and vote will sit back after and kick on the operation of their own municipality or the Haliburton County Board of Education. If they didn't vote they should sit back and keep their mouths shut. You can't close the gate after the horses are out.

I for one, along with other people, have been on this skating kick at the Dysart Community Centre for sometime now. The complaint in the past has been that there just wasn't enough time for public skating. We have been advised by Don Lloyd, the arena manager, that there will be public skating at the arena each and every Sunday evening without fail from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. We have asked for ice time so let's make sure that we take advantage of it. I would like to see the arena ice surface covered with people skating. It's a lot of fun and good exercise. This Sunday only, public skating will be held from 2 to 4 p.m.

It's certainly good to see that the senior citizens apartment building in Minden is moving ahead at a good pace. It will be a credit to the village when completed.

Our sympathy goes out this week to the families of Dr. Len Burch and Jim Elder both of Minden who passed away last week. I personally got to know Dr. Burch through the Minden Rotary Club and he was a man who truly put "service above self". I have also known Jim Elder for some time and found him to be a real gentleman and friend. These two men will really be missed in the community.

I had quite a long talk with Wren Blair the other day and he filled me in on the giant expansion plan for PineStone Inn. The Inn which is a credit to not only Haliburton but to the county has really taken off and business has been so good that they have no other way to go but to expand. I was really surprised to hear of the many big companies from all over Canada and the United States who have held conventions at PineStone. We also understand that they have all booked conventions once again for next year. If tourism is to go ahead we need more such facilities as PineStone Inn in Haliburton County.

We have just been informed that representatives of the Haliburton, Kawartha and Pine Ridge District Health Council will be holding a public meeting to review and discuss the recommendations of the Red Cross organization concerning the

Ontario Family Law

The recently-enacted family law reform legislation is mandatory reading for each Ontario resident. The new laws set the tone for the direction such law reform will likely take in other areas of Canada.

The Ontario Ministry of the Attorney-General has issued a pamphlet summarizing the main changes, some of which are outlined here.

Under the new law, a family-assets approach is adopted. The general effect is that any property which the family uses together will be shared equally as assets belonging to both spouses if the marriage breaks up all property used together for shelter, transportation, household, educational, recreational, social or esthetic purposes falls into this category.

There are, of course, important exceptions to the general rule. A court could change these equal proportions in favour of either spouse, or go so far as to order the sharing of other assets (such as investments and business assets), if it thinks it is necessary to achieve fairness.

It must be noted that the family-assets system does not apply in circumstances where the couple has a marriage contract spelling out exactly what belongs to whom if their marriage fails.

Furthermore, the family assets system applies only as long as both spouses are alive and then only when the marriage fails. Otherwise, with the exception of the matrimonial home, spouses are free to deal with their own property as they see fit.

Under the new rules, either spouse can seek a court order for possession of the matrimonial home and contents, regardless of in whose name or names legal ownership rests. This also applies to rented accommodation. Before a court can make such an order, it must be established that financial support alone would not be adequate.

Neither spouse is authorized to sell the matrimonial home without the written consent of the other. If a spouse's consent cannot be obtained because he or she is unreasonably withholding it, is mentally incompetent, or cannot be located, a court could allow a sale without consent.

The basic principle established by the new legislation is that as long as one spouse can show need and the other can help, support must be provided. In today's society, it no longer matters which role is held by which spouse. The principle also applies to "common law relationships".

One of the more interesting aspects of the law states that natural parents who have cared for and supported a child (or who have treated a child as one of their own family) can claim support from that child provided he or she is over 18, the parent or parents are in need and the child is able to afford it.

If a person dies without a will, the surviving spouse receives the first $75,000 of the estate plus half the remainder if there is one child. If there are two or more children, the spouse gets the first $75,000 plus one-third of the remainder.

If the provisions of a will inadequately provide for any surviving family members, they can apply to a court for a greater share of the estate. This right is available to the spouse, parents, children and brothers and sisters of the deceased if the deceased was supporting them or was under a legal obligation to support them.

The new Marriage Act requires any person 16 or 17 years old to obtain both parents' consent to marry. Marriage is not permitted for anyone under 16. Nonreligious ceremonies can still be performed by judges and designated justices of the peace.

The Children's Law Reform Act has abolished the status of illegitimacy. All children now have the same legal rights whether or not they were born within marriage.

The new legislature is still very much in the start-up process and many lawyers are still reluctant to predict with any degree of certainty what some of its provisions portend.

Century Celebrations

The Guild of Fine Arts is frantically working on last minute preparations for this very special weekend. The finishing touches are being put on the many articles that will be displayed at the exhibition and sale at the Ol' Barn, the model railroad is being carefully set up at the new Glebe Park Museum, and great quantities of food are being prepared for the dance and buffet at the Legion on Friday night. Tickets for the dance are available through any Guild member of the Chamber of Commerce.

The Senior Citizens are holding a Tea and Bake Sale in conjunction with Century Celebrations. The proceeds from their efforts are to benefit their New Horizons projects.

The "Guild Station" is to be a most worthwhile tourist attraction for the entire county and we sincerely hope that they will be supported from throughout the county on the fund raising efforts that commence on this anniversary weekend.

I don't think I've ever seen, or heard, the Canadian people in a more querulous mood than they are today. And with less reason.

Even during the Depression, people weren't so angry and whining. They were scared and worried and frustrated, because there was no work and they sometimes didn't know where the next meal was coming from. But they were also lean and tough and ingenious and independent. They didn't spend all their time bitching about the government.

Maybe we've got too fat and too lazy and too government-dependent during the last forty-odd years. During and after World War II, we sailed happily into the select few nations that had the highest living standard in the world, and we've never recovered.

We thought all we had to do was lie back like a high-priced prossie and let the money roll in. Germany and Japan were licked, the British were bankrupt, and North America was living high off the hog.

Everybody was buying new cars and houses and boats and summer properties, because the cornucopia of goodies had no bottom. All we had to do was keep the Red Menace at bay, and the Yanks would look after that.

For a decade or so after the war, the pipe-dream lasted, even got more colors and more shine. Industry and business was booming. The Americans were pouring in development money.

But a combination of things put the handwriting on the wall. My salary quadrupled in a decade. And so did yours. But it still wasn't enough. We developed a reputation as a nation that was completely untrustworthy when it came to labour relations and strikes. We took on massive social aid plans such as medicare, that we really couldn't afford. We tried to outdo every other country in the world when it came to unemployment insurance and welfare and pensions.

The bills, with interest, kept piling up in the lending capitals of the world.

At the same time, Germany, Japan and other nations with populations only too eager to work their butts off to get rid of starvation and cold and housing shortages, aided by a massive injection of funds from the States, panicked about the Cold War, began to rebuild with a speed and singleness of purpose that was frightening.

Our trade languished because our products were too expensive to meet the competition. Our international clout diminished rapidly as we welshed on our NATO commitments, kept our foreign aid frugal, and waffled when we should have snarled, in the U.N.

And now it's all coming home to roost. And we're crying like a bunch of babies. We've wrestled inflation to the ground, but who's on top in the fall? Our dollar is propped up by interest rates that would make me turn green with sweat profusely were I a young husband hoping to buy a house with a big mortgage. Say $40,000 at 11.5 per cent. Figure it out, boy. And it (the dollar) is still worth only 85 cents U.S., which isn't much good either, beside the yen and the mark and the franc.

A friend of mine, who fought with the German Army in North Africa gets a bigger war pension than I do, plus a civilian pension from Germany worth $150 a month, because the mark is so healthy. Who the heck won the war, anyway? We did, but we lost the peace.

With inimitable resources, we have a horrendous unemployment rate. The country is going into debt to the tune of billions a year. Taxes are high and ever-climbing.

And why? Greed. We all want more and more of it. Cont'd. page 9

Report from Queens Park

by MPP John Eakins

The Residential Tenancies Act has been given approval in principle and has now been sent to committee for study. This legislation, which would permit the eviction of tenants for breaking a landlord's "house rules", has been strongly criticized by tenants and opposition party critics since its introduction, October 30. At present, landlords must obtain a court order to evict a tenant, but under the new bill a landlord can establish "house rules", and if they are broken, can apply to the new Residential Tenancies Commission, which can tell the tenant to move out. This bill also extends rent controls on the majority of rental units at least until the end of 1979 and changes the rent review system.

In connection with the deaths of 22 Hamilton foundry workers, who died from lung cancer, the Minister of Labour has described the actions of medical officials in his ministry and the Workmen's Compensation Board as "careless". The Minister stated that he had met officials from his Ministry's occupational health and safety division and the WCB and learned that the investigation was not carried out because of a breakdown in communications. He continued "In reviewing the correspondence I must say...the breakdown in communications is difficult to understand. Nevertheless, this misunderstanding did arise and was not brought to my attention until I commenced my investigation". This so-called breakdown in communication has led to a further delay in the WCB's decision on the 22 claims for compensation made by the widows and families of the foundry workers who have already been waiting for more than a year for a decision. In July 1977, the board received a copy of a 10-year study by Dominion Foundries and Steel Limited which discovered that foundry workers over 45 years old are four and a half times as likely to contract lung cancer than workers in other parts of the plant. Dofasco officials have pointed out that these lung cancers may be the result of operations and processes in the foundry 20 years ago that no longer apply.

Hospitals cannot expect a bigger increase in capital or operating funds next year, the Minister of Health has told the Ontario Hospital Association. Capital budgets have, in fact, been pared from last spring's approved $115-million to $98-million for 1978-79, and next year's total is unlikely to be more than this year's, according to the Minister. On the average, operating budgets for the coming year cannot be increased by more than 4.5 per cent and "a much harder look at the whole system" will be needed to achieve even this, he said, warning the hospitals not to budget for deficits which "is a shortsighted practice that could lead to serious consequences". Any hospital running a deficit will find it will have to foot the bill.

Report from Parliament

by William C. Scott MP

The budget tables last week in the House of Commons by federal finance minister Jean Chretien has been termed a "stagnation budget" by most opposition critics, mainly because it did not obtain the necessary ingredients to get the national economy moving again.

If that is so, and there is very little in the budget to indicate otherwise, then I can only suspect that the government did only what it absolutely had to do to buy time until it is ready to bring in an election budget.

It was saved from being a purely blatant political budget by only a narrow margin, by achieving a balance between its benefits for consumers, taxpayers and industry and resource development.

However, the benefits to the wage earning public have been put forward to the 1979 taxation year, which means that the actual tax cuts will not show up in pockets of most Canadians until after they file tax returns in early 1980.

Briefly, the tax reductions are as follows: a nine per cent increase in personal exemptions; an increase from $250 to $500 in employment expenses (tools, materials, etc.); increase in the child tax credit, and reduction in unemployment insurance premiums.

The UIC premium reduction will become effective in January, 1979, resulting in a saving of 15 cents per week for each one hundred dollars of earnings. The rest of the benefits are deferred until the beginning of 1980.

In the upcoming election campaign the government will be able to point to the tax relief due at the end of the year, plus any other 'goodies' that will likely appear in an election budget.

The government reduced the federal sales tax on manufactured goods, effective immediately, from 12 to nine per cent. This saving of three per cent will have minimal effect on consumer prices, unless of course there is a slack in consumer buying in the coming months. Otherwise there is little incentive on the part of manufacturers to try to pass along the full three per cent reduction to the consumer.

I applauded the item in the budget to allow a 100 per cent write-off of development expenses in the mining industry, and the provision for increasing the investment tax credit from five to 10 per cent for research and development.

On the whole, I cannot help but feel that the government tabled last week's budget more in

Lakefield dominates, Huskies lose again

The Haliburton Huskies came up pointless once again as they dropped a game to the Lakefield Chiefs Sunday night.

Haliburton, the visitors in this match, had some excellent scoring opportunities in the first period, but failed to capitalize on the chances as Lakefield went on to win the game 6 to 3.

In the first period, the Lakefield squad struck first when they scored at the 5:28 mark. Though the chances became enumerable for Haliburton in the period, Lakefield held the lead going into the second.

But it didn't take long for Haliburton to get back into the swing of things. Scarcely more than a minute gone in the second period, centre Randy Barras came up shining when he scored assisted by leftwinger Joe Roberts and defenceman Barry Shaw, the Huskie's captain.

The visitors took the lead at the 5:39 point when leftwinger Chris Hodgson put one in. The goal was assisted by Barras and Joe Roberts.

Tim Oram was thrown out of the game at the 11:00 mark. The defenceman got the gate originally for elbowing, but had a scuffle with one of the Lakefield players. The result was Oram received a fighting penalty as well as a game misconduct for aggravating the fight. Lakefield scored again at the 14:31 mark.

In the third, Lakefield pulled out in front once again with two quick goals, one a power play on Barry Shaw's interference penalty and the other at even strength. At 12:00, Hodgson for Haliburton scored Haliburton's final goal of the game when he picked one up off of centre Andy Salvatori and defenceman, Tim Bain.

Lakefield then came away with another power play goal at the 18:16 mark. Haliburton scarcely had time to re-organize when Lakefield came up with their final goal of the game at the 18:36 point. Throughout the game, Haliburton took a fair amount of penalties. But, says Huskies manager Don Lloyd, another contributing factor to the loss was the fact that the team was missing defenceman Kevin O'Hara and Mike Iles.

"With them out, it didn't make things any easier," said Lloyd. He added that "we hit a lot of goalposts and missed a lot of nets, but we just couldn't put the puck in the net."

The Huskies play next this Friday when they travel to Bobcaygeon for the match. Game time is at 8:30 p.m. These two teams will meet again when Bobcaygeon travels to Haliburton on Sunday. Due to the Grey Cup game being played in the afternoon, game time for the match has been changed to 8 p.m.

Although curling season officially opened November 13, the first bonspiel of the 1978-79 season was conducted last Saturday with a one-day men's event at the Haliburton Curling Club. A curling clinic will be offered by the Ontario Curling Association this Saturday, from 9 a.m. until early afternoon. The clinic is open to all curlers at a fee of $2.

Peterborough team wins three games

One day spiel held

by Tom Stinson

Dave Shaw's rink from Peterborough was the only rink to win three games in Haliburton Club's early one-day spiel to take home the top prize.

Jim Golden's foursome from Lindsay won two games and split prizes with two Haliburton rinks; skipped by Murray Kuno and Bob Collier. Murray had Dave Bishop, Dave Gray and Bob MacNaull playing with him, while Bob Collier led Dick McLean, Clark Bailey and John Wilson to two wins. John Beachli's rink was top scorer in the 1 game winners bracket.

It was a good day with some fine curling and some not-so-good action. It was enjoyable and all participants were high in praise of the hospitality and the fine meal served up by our ladies.

Locally, our schedules got underway last week, but we have some openings for both ladies and men curlers. Men are curling on Monday nights, ladies on Tuesday nights and mixed on Thursday. Please phone Bob Collier at 457-2547 if you would like to curl. Even if you have never curled in all your years, instruction is available and our friendly members will surely make you welcome. Ladies may phone our president, Kit Koehler at 457-1187, or Linda Beachli at 457-2973.

Our senior mixed, scheduled on Thursday afternoons at 1:30 has already made a fine start. But there is plenty of room for more. Again, we will mention even if you have never curled, come on out and join in a friendly sport where instruction and coaching is available. Phone Tom Stinson at 457-2004, if you are interested in a good afternoon of fun.

Our Haliburton club, in brand-new facilities, have a very busy schedule of spiels and club curling planned. We are glad to welcome any new curlers to join us in this fine winter sport.

Driver Training Classes to Start

Local snowmobile clubs will be holding courses again this year for the safety training and driver certification of operators over the age of 12 years. Instruction centres on safe driving practices, provides a working knowledge of the machine, its capabilities and its limitations, as well as the current laws and regulations governing its use in Ontario. The course is primarily aimed at the young snowmobiler, but anyone may benefit from taking it.

Here are the location and dates of classes now scheduled in the immediate area:

November 25, 1978, at Lot 2, Plan 402, Kennis Lake, Haliburton, Ontario, beginning at 9 a.m. Instructors: W. R. Joyce and Sidney J. Mills, Kennis Lake Snowmobile Association.

December 3, 1978, at Club 35, on Highway 35 at Halls Lake, Ontario, beginning at 9 a.m. Instructors: Robert Patton, (phone 489-2489) and Robert Jennings, (489-2020), Haliburton County Snowmobile Association.

Persons wishing to enroll for one of these, or subsequent classes, should contact an instructor without delay. A note to parents: A graduate crest is available to students who successfully complete the course. Cost is $1. When worn on his snowmobile suit, this attractive embroidered crest identifies your child as a trained and duly licensed driver. Obtainable only from the instructor.

More New Trails?

The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association sent three men into the woods last week to begin another trail building project. This Canada Works program is expected to complete dry land routes which make connections from the HCSA trails now in existence to such neighbouring trails as the Five Points Trail to the south, Orillia District to the west, and Baysville-Port Sydney trails to the north.

It seems very likely that the Irondale River bridge at Gooderham will be a reality in time for this year's snow season. That river is the only obstruction remaining in our link-up with the clubs at Burnt River, Buckhorn and Bobcaygeon. Look for heavy traffic on the Gooderham trail this year.

Snowmobilers travelling between Minden and Orillia have been faced, in the past, with a difficult section along the Hydro line. This is scheduled to be improved this year, and, hopefully, groomed.

A visit to Port Sydney by snowmobiler formerly entailed a roundabout route by lake and portage or an unhealthy amount of road running. With the Hill and Gully Riders working from one end and the HCSA from the other, the long awaited connection via Baysville will soon be on the map.

More Tourist Dollars

Whether you see it as snowmobilers touring or as tourists snowmobiling, it all adds up to the same thing.

With the advent of trail grooming and a rapidly growing grid of trails, Ontario's snowmobilers are on the move. As mentioned last week in the column, "From The Chamber", Haliburton has been designated as the next growth area for winter recreation. The Haliburton County Snowmobile Association has more than fulfilled the obligations of snowmobilers to provide safe facilities for themselves. Growth in winter tourism now depends very largely on how well those facilities get promoted.

Within the next few days business operators throughout the area can expect a call or a visit from an HCSA officer requesting support for a new snowmobile trail map.

Advertisements for the map package will be received in lieu of commercial memberships for this year. This is an offer you cannot afford to miss.

Wilberforce minor hockey gets underway

93% better traction in snow- 25% better traction on ice than summer radials-

That's why this is the best winter tire you can buy!

That's right! Goodyear's Ice Radial (F32 All-Winter Radial) gives you 93% better traction in snow, 25% better traction on ice than summer radials. Just think of the extra gripping power — the extra measure of safety — when you need it most.

Winter traction tests comparing The Ice Radial to Goodyear's Custom Polysteel Radial showed that the Ice Radial gave:

- 93% better dynamic traction in snow*
- 25% better dynamic traction on ice
- 23% better hill climb in snow
- 23% better breakaway traction in snow

*Test details available on request.

So why take chances with your summer radials? Play it safe — get the traction you need — with the Ice Radial. It's the best winter tire that Goodyear makes.

Traction on ice without studs — and more!

Why does the Ice Radial perform so well on icy roads? The secret is in the special rubber compound that stays "bendable" — even at below freezing temperatures — to conform to icy road surfaces.

This is Goodyear's finest traction tire, built tough with Flexen cord belts — pound for pound stronger than steel. It also has a unique tread design with hundreds of biting edges for traction on ice as well as in snow.

Get a pair of Goodyear Ice Radials for your car. You'll enjoy many winters of confident driving with the best traction money can buy.

News from Extendicare

by Dr. W. O. Anderson

Jim Allen and Charlie Welch tied for high score at our Monday morning games and exercises. This session was shortened because it was election day and many of the contestants had to vote.

Mrs. Lottie Woodcock had Russell's wife, Mable in to visit her. They visit together quite often.

Mrs. Karen Scott, one of our nurses aides, brought her baby, Jill, of seven weeks in to see us. She is a sister for Chris, Karen's only other child. They have the makings of a very nice family.

We are sad to announce that Elgin Douglas, formerly owner of Douglas Tires, Lindsay, and a chartered member of our Happy Gang is dead. While with us, he was a colorful and interesting resident.

Jack Pollard of Haliburton is our newest member having joined us Monday. Tuesday he joined us at Bingo and has settled himself very well.

We have been nicely introduced to a relatively new (for us) past-time, an old reliable jigsaw puzzle. A sizeable table has been set out in the activity room for the express purpose of a jigsaw puzzle layout. Everyone of us is invited to participate in putting these puzzles together.

It is interesting to realize the remarkable language English is with a total of over 450,000 words each of which has been scrutinized as intently as any of the Egyptian mummies. The words are then catalogued into the Oxford English Dictionary of 17 volumes weighing over 100 pounds, to form a guide for the scholars of all English speaking nations. It is understood it omits blasphemies and obscenities.

Wednesday was baking day and it was decided to bake a banana nut cake with all the trimmings for our Thursday big birthday party. To make to work light Mrs. Elizabeth McIntosh, Mrs. Lottie Woodcock, Mrs. Flossie Burk, Mary Currah, Mrs. Ada Denholm, Mrs. Myrtle Pritchard, Mrs. Florence Stagg and Mrs. Maud Weston, all contributed. We will try it tomorrow.

Bill Andrew's family beat the gun by having a birthday party for him today instead of tomorrow, and had the activity room all to themselves for the birthday dinner. There were son, Harold, and his wife, Evelyn, with daughter, Barbara, the pianist, another son, Allan, with his wife, Linda, along with Bill's daughter, Nadine and her budding pianist daughter, Dorothy. Bill is 84 with a great wealth in descendants.

Mrs. Ethel Fader had a nice visit by her daughter, Mrs. Elva (John) Barjarow of Cornwall and her husband. These visits always add cheer.

Hail to the United States for making Thursday a non-smoking day. It is an exceedingly filthy habit and tops the list as the cause of fires. So be a good girl or boy and stop it.

We had a party as usual Thursday afternoon celebrating the birthdays of Mrs. Edith Hartie, Bill Andrews, Pauline Otto and Mrs. Hazel Parish. They are good members of the Happy Gang. Helping to make this party the success that it was, were Mrs. Marilyn Stouffer, the 'live-wire' mistress of ceremonies, pianist, Mrs. Betty Salvatori, Charles Plewman on harmonica, Capt. Doug Burry of the Haliburton Salvation Army accompanied by three other officers gave us a nice hymn sing-song Sunday afternoon. It is nice of Capt. Burry to do this.

an item in the service, we assured him that to our knowledge we are an exceptionally amiable bunch and no tensions exist among us. It is possible that all homes are like that.

In the afternoon were movies, the first of which showed desert bloom. It was amazing the tenacity of these plants that they can take drought and go dormant, but the first touch of moisture immediately brings them into bloom. In the second film, some skirmishes of the 1812 War were enacted before the camera to show the utter rawness of the available recruits, and their magnificent performance. The last movie showed the water dwellers of British Columbia, those who in their employment in the logging industry spend their lives on raft houses year by year. These three films were of very good quality.

Activity among the plants and flowers is as dormant as the plants are.

Inflation has everyone in its grip and there is no escape. The average price of beef, or pork, or poultry, or fish is $2 a pound or $5 a kilo. The price of the latest in ladies fur coats is $10,000 up to $60,000. First class postage stamps at 20 cents is on the horizon, 50 cents is in the offing, $1 stamp are in design. Will this inflation ever recede?

Capt. Doug Burry of the Haliburton Salvation Army accompanied by three other officers gave us a nice hymn sing-song Sunday afternoon. It is nice of Capt. Burry to do this.

Guild of Fine Arts News

Count down is now...in two days time, the Guild and all its hard working volunteers will see the results of their diligent planning and preparations. If the quality and proficiency of the advertising put together by Bob Stinson, Jim McLean and Joe Banks, combined with the excellent displays in the window of the old IGA by Jane Heyes and the Wilberforce Library by Patti Smith along with the television interview of Carole Finn and Barbara Peel by Sylvia Sutherland are any indication of the response we can expect, the weekend will be a resounding success.

All systems are go! From the unique memorabilia and train displays at the museum at Glebe Park, the Centenary Celebration Dance at the Legion on Friday night to the Christmas Show and Sale at the Old Barn. All these activities are in aid of fund raising for the new Guild Station Gallery. Also, on the agenda for this weekend, will be the Century Bazaar and Tea put on by the senior citizens in the arena auditorium on Saturday. This special invitation is extended to all the residents and visitors in Haliburton County...come, help us celebrate and enjoy.

Pottery Group
Hooray, they're done! The 100 pendants and 400 pins are on their way to the kiln for the final firing and to all the women and men who helped make this possible, we thank you. They will make a lovely souvenir of our 100-year celebration.

The Guild's History - The School and Guild Working Together

With the School of Fine Arts administration in the hands of the local volunteers that first year, they soon discovered they were babes in the tangled woodlands of arts and crafts. Wrestling with each new problem as it evolved, they grew surely as tadpoles become bullfrogs. After long sessions of examination and evaluation, it was decided to leave accommodations up to the students, who could use existing school facilities, whenever possible, and lodges for fall courses. Office and gallery space for winter exhibitions was obtained by renting the former office of the late Dr. L. H. Carroll (that building has since been torn down, and now is the parking lot for the new IGA. Office furniture was borrowed and Mrs. Munro was engaged as secretary.

At first, business procedure was not always strictly adhered to nor formal votes taken, but each decision was reached by unanimous approval and with good will for all concerned.

Reverend Ron McCaw was at this time reconciling his responsibilities as a minister with his role as prime organizer of an art school as it posed interesting problems. The school's weekend courses that autumn ran from Friday night through to Sunday at 3 p.m. This fact caught the attention of the resident Anglican minister, who threatened to invoke Ontario's "Lord's Day Act" on the spot. He was placated when Reverend McCaw and Reverend Noel McNeill organized

Correction

In last week's Echo on the family page, it was stated under the photograph of Charlie Fader, a Maple Lake resident celebrating his 99th birthday, that the child beside him was Jerry Griffin. The child was, in fact, his fifth generation granddaughter, Kimberley Harding. The Echo regrets the error.

"Cast Away" "Set Aside"
"Hath God . . . set away His people? God hath not cast away His people which He foreknew. For the gifts and calling of God are without repentance. Romans 11:1, 2, 29."

The Jews are often spoken of as "God's ancient people" but they are also "His modern people", and "His future people". They are the "only" race and "nation" which God ever chose, or will choose. Too often people forget that fact! Lev. 20:26, Deut. 7:6, 14:2, 32:8-9, Isaiah 44:1, Amos 3:1, 2. Their history is one long, unbroken record of four thousand years, and, though marked throughout by stubborn rebellion and moral defection, they ever have been the subjects of God's protecting care. an ecumenical worship service, which was held 7 a.m. to 8 a.m. each Sunday a course was held. It was not well patronized. By November 20, 1967, Reverend McCaw had reached a decision. He would resign since his role as president of a School of Fine Arts encroached on time he felt already committed to parish and family. There were conflicts of interest of a kind. For instance, one of the art instructors wished to introduce nude life studies using live models. McCaw would not concur and even after his resignation Haliburton standards and attitudes inhibited instruction in this area. Although Elizabeth Hobden had already moved to Eganville in September, she was elected president in absentia.

everything: new highways, new airports, bigger pensions, bigger salaries, two cars in every garage, and meat at least six times a week.

But look around you, and see if our un-Canadian whining is justified. It's still one of the best countries in the world to live in, physically.

Take in a supermarket. There's a power of complaining about prices, but people, even the relatively poor, are snapping up luxury items: frozen foods, oranges, California grapes, hot-house tomatoes, chicken, lamb chops, deodorants, bought cakes.

In the old days, the only time I saw an orange or a grape in the house was at Christmas. I didn't know what a lamb chop tasted like until I came of age. A chicken was something you bought from a farmer for a dollar, plucked and eviscerated yourself, and had for a special Sunday dinner, with relatives. My mother would have considered frozen food an abomination of the devil, and a temptation for lazy women. Deodorants consisted of soap.

And yet we never went hungry, and never stank. Well, maybe a little, by the end of the week.

Don't misunderstand me. I don't want to go back to the old days, when my Dad developed ulcers worrying about the coal bill, and my Mom worked until midnight, patching and sewing to keep us decent.

But I'm getting heartily sick of Canadians who are worried about missing the trip to the Caribbean this winter, or having to put off the purchase of a new car until next summer. Quitcher-bitch!

Haman tried in vain to do in Bible times, as recorded in secular and Old Testament pages, modern nations have tried equally unsuccessfully to accomplish ever since. They are like the "burning bush" which Moses saw, and they remain a living monument to indestructibility. Exodus 3:1-12, Psalms 129:1-2.

They are the "standing miracle" of history, the "one exception" to the otherwise universal law of fusion of races. Modern Israel is the outcome of this fact, a Jew remains to be a Jew wherever he had lodged previously.

The Apostle Paul earnestly strives to remind us of God's intent and purpose for these people. Romans 11:2-7.

Thus it was in the days of Elijah, who was God's lone champion, there were yet "seven thousand men" who had "not bowed the knee to the image of Baal". Paul says there always was and is a "faithful remnant". Is. 6:13, 10:20-23, 65:8-10, Ezekiel 6:8-10, Zech. 13:8-9, Romans 9:27-29.

Jewish "rejection" of the Gospel led to Gentile reception of it, and that was the world's salvation. But the Apostle says, "If the 'fall' of them be the 'riches' of the world, and the diminishing of them the riches of the Gentiles, how 'much more' their fullness? If the casting away of them be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be, but life from the dead?" Then, the Apostle uses the familiar Scriptural symbol of the olive tree as an illustration to describe the "grafting" of the Gentiles as a "wild olive" among "the natural branches" (Israel) making them partakers "of the root and fatness of the olive tree. He points out, however, that the Jewish branches were broken off 'because of unbelief'."

and that Gentile believers stand "by faith", and further declares the certainty of the "latter's" being "cut off" if they continue not in God's goodness, and of the "former's" being grafted in again, "if they abide not still in unbelief."

The Apostle further proceeds to state that the Jewish blindness is only partial and temporary, and when the "fulness of the Gentiles be come in, all Israel shall be saved, and 'become' the evangelizers of the rest of mankind." Romans 11:25-32. This simply means that the "Days of the Church" will give way to better days ahead as the "nation" will find her proper place in God calling them out as a separate nation.

To date, they have not fulfilled that holy calling, but have used their gifts in secular pursuits.

God is now, at present visiting the Gentiles to "take out of them a people for His name, these people are known to Him as His Church and are composed of both Jews and Gentiles. The "nation" which was chosen by God to be His missionaries to the whole world will come into the picture once again when the "Deliverer shall come out of Zion, and turn away ungodliness from Jacob, building 'again the tabernacle of David which is fallen down.' Acts 15:13-18.

Scripture is plain that God's plan for Israel as a nation will be ultimately fulfilled, and not until that day arrives, will there be the blessing that the world is longing for in our day of turmoil and uncertainty. The Church certainly has failed to bring about the Utopia dreamed of. The secret lies in the "nation" finding its true calling to be a blessing not a curse.

Thank You

Allsaw Pentecostal Church announces new appointment

The Allsaw Pentecostal Church on Highway 121, halfway between Minden and Haliburton announces the appointment of a new Pastor. Reverend Jack Chamberlin has been called to the pulpit of this growing community church.

Reverend and Mrs. Chamberlin are actively involved in a radio ministry as well as in Christian writing and publishing and have served pulpits in Quebec, Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Ontario. Mr. Chamberlin was Director of Administration, Producer and Public Relations Director for the Crossroads Telecast for two years.

The Chamberlins have also travelled considerably in the evangelistic field both in Canada and the United States and have been hosts for overseas tours into the Holy Land and Egypt. Presently, Pastor Chamberlin is editor for IMPACT, the national publication for the Pentecostal Holiness Church of Canada as well as member of the General Board of Administration and Assistant Superintendent for the Ontario Conference.

Reverend Chamberlin and his wife, Beverly, have four children, Shawn who is studying computer technology in Mohawk College, Brett who is involved in security work, Lorri and Shane, still students in high school. All members of the Chamberlin family are actively involved in Christian activities. Shawn and Shane frequently minister musically in Christian coffee houses, churches and young peoples groups under the name of "Mordecai". Lorri has been involved in youth and children's work both in churches as well as at camps. Mrs. Chamberlin has also followed a career as a legal secretary as well as serving as secretary-treasurer for the Ontario Conference W.A. and several other charitable organizations.

The Chamberlins have already assumed responsibility of the church and are on hand for the Sunday services, Friday night Family night and visitation. They are living in Caledonia, Ontario at present, however, they will be moving into the community shortly.

In commenting on the Pastoral appointment, Reverend Chamberlin has expressed delight in coming to Haliburton County as well as a heartfelt desire to be of help to people of the community regardless of their religious affiliation. The services are open to people of all faiths. Sunday School and morning worship is at 10:30 a.m., and evangelistic service is at 7 p.m.

Good, Old-Fashioned Molasses

When the country was young, the settlers knew that molasses was an energy food. They were familiar with its versatility in cooking and baking, and as a spread. Molasses was bought in bulk from the general store and poured into whatever container happened to be at hand.

Today's cooks and bakers use molasses to add zest and flavor, as well as color, to their foods. The Crosby's Molasses Company has produced a modern cookbook full of recipe ideas. For a free copy please send me a postcard; I'll be happy to mail you one.

Chatting with Irene

by Irene Moore

As the festive season fast approaches, I wonder how many of us realize that it is just one month from this Saturday. I'm glad I looked at the calendar for most of the time it seems coming but not that close. Now I will have to get busy or I will be into that last minute rush; each year I swear that all will be started sooner, but always seem caught up in that final whirlpool. I don't think I told you that both of my Christmas Cactus (or is it Cacti) are blooming like mad. I have to tell someone as the family have them but they are not blooming, so I hate to brag. The white one has five big blooms and two many buds to count. The big red one only has four flowers but also has many blooms coming. This is the first time it has bloomed at Christmas.

Mr. and Mrs. Clare Brown spent a weekend at Loreta recently.

Mr. and Mrs. Percy Brintnell are home after visiting with family and friends in other areas for a few weeks.

Did you know that in my left handed dictionary the word "Grandma" is an old lady who keeps your mother from spanking you.

The Ron Davis family from Timmins spent the weekend with the Earl Hewitts, who had a birthday party for Bert Lynas on the Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Al Barron have been holidaying in the sunny south.

Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Cox are spending their wedding anniversary in the Bahamas. This is the trip that Lynne won in the Furniture Store contest.

The U.C.W. luncheon and bazaar was not affected by the rainy weather. A large crowd attended although it was a horrible day. The people came from that home-made soup anyway, with the lovely Christmas decorations making the hall very attractive, everyone seemed in a festive mood.

Don't forget if you still need to get in the holiday mood, the Hyland Crest Auxiliary Christmas Tea and Bazaar is today and the A.C.W. one is December 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Lionel Rowe spent a few days with the Art Hodgkins last week.

Several weeks ago, Mr. and Mrs. Clare Brown attended a surprise birthday party for Reta's mother who celebrated her 80th birthday. This party was held at Bradford and 32 of the family were present.

Guess we can consider ourselves lucky that our weather has been so nice, but one of these days we will be wishing we could head south as the geese do. I hope it holds off for a while, as I haven't dug out my winter coat yet.

If you still want to make a fruit cake, here is a good recipe for a light one. 1 1/2 cups seedless raisins, washed and dried; 3/4 cup chopped pitted dates; 1 cup mixed red and green candied or well drained maraschino cherries, halved; 3/4 cup finely diced mixed, red, green and yellow candied pineapple; 3/4 cup broken pecans or walnuts; 2 1/2 cups all purpose flour; 2 tsp. baking powder; 1 tsp. salt; 1/4 tsp. ground mace; 1 cup margarine; 1 1/4 cups white sugar; 4 eggs; 1 tsp. grated lemon rind; 2 tsp. lemon juice. Prepare first 6 ingredients; sift together next 4 ingredients, add fruit, mix until all pieces are separated and coated with flour; cream margarine, gradually blend in sugar, eggs, lemon rind and juice. Add flour mixture part at a time, combining well; turn into 9 inch angel cake pan, which has been lined with one layer of aluminum foil or three layers of heavy brown paper, (top layer well greased). Bake in 300 degree oven 2-2 1/2 hours. Let cool in pan, turn out, peel off paper. If you wish glaze hot cake with mixture of 2 tbsp. corn syrup, 1 tbsp. water. Store in tightly covered container for at least 1 week.

The United Church Women are holding their regular meeting on November 27, at 7:30 p.m. This is the last meeting for 1978, it is hoped there will be a good turnout.

Last Wednesday afternoon, the Women's Institute held their November meeting at St. Paul's Parish Hall. The president opened the meeting with a verse. The roll call was answered by "A famous Canadian Indian, past or present, and why". The card report was given, then a collection taken for both cards and pennies for friendship. If you know of anyone who is ill or has a special day, please call 286-1674 so a card can be sent to them. "Spotlight on bread" summary day is December 7 at the Government building in Lindsay. If you are interested and in Lindsay that day, you are welcome to drop in. The president thanked the ladies who helped with the tea at Hyland Crest on November 9. The highlights of the arena convention were given in a full and interesting report by Jeanne Sears, the delegate.

at the close of her report she thanked the branch for sending her to this convention.

The Tweedsmuir Books were on display and the Curator mentioned that several ladies are in the process of compiling histories. A brief note was read on the Stamp-Trumbull families. A copy was read of the Census of 1861 for Minden and Stanhope Township for the Ontario Archives. To anyone interested in the early days of this area, these Tweedsmuir History Books are at the Minden Library, and you look through them there. The Library is open every day from 3 to 5 p.m. and three evenings each week from 7:30 to 8:30 on Tuesday, Thursday, and Friday. Verses were read by Mrs. Arnold Coulter, "If I possessed a shop or store" and by Mrs. M. Bunker, "A man's opinion of the W.I."

The Christmas Party will be held in the United Church Hall on December 20 at 7:30 p.m. There is a gift exchange of not less than $1. The roll call will be a Christmas Verse. If you are interested in meeting the members, this is a social evening and you are cordially invited to join with them for this meeting.

Adios and take care now.

There was about a 40 per cent turnout of voters for the township election on November 13. In the advance poll, 317 voted with another 424 on the regular voting day. Incumbent Reeve John Ridgeway was re-elected while incumbent councillor, Eric Voutier is the new deputy-reeve. Councillors are Dave Graham, Mike Riordan and Barry Scott. We now look to these men to make the right decisions with our tax dollars for the next two years.

As representatives of the Norland Women's Institute, Jean Stewart, Pat Watson, Anna Verkerk and I attended the 76th Convention of Central Ontario Area Women's Institute at the Royal York Hotel in Toronto on Thursday, November 9. This is a two-day convention but we were only there for the first day of it. On Thursday, some 310 ladies registered for the meeting with another 35 to 40 expected on Friday. The standing committee convensors presented their reports to the group in the morning and after lunch President, Mrs. P. Junkin spoke briefly to the ladies. Afterwards, a dialogue between home economists, Mrs. Beverly Brooks and Mrs. Patricia Reid on how to complain with some helpful hints was of interest to the audience. This was followed by three delightful songs sung by Mrs. Betty Reid of the Derry West Branch of the W.I., Peel South. Mrs. O. Jordan and Mrs. Maurice Jones who were among two of the ladies of an exchange program of the W.I. members to Britain last summer, attempted in a short time to tell us some of the highlights of their three wonderful weeks abroad and of the most generous and friendly reception given to all of them while there. Moorish Women's Institute, Port Hope Branch, won the first prize for the handmade afghan while Mrs. M. Robson of Fenelon Falls placed first for her oil painting. Dr. Kathleen Gow, a sociologist at Hospital for Sick Children, chose as her topic "Values Education" and it proved to make us much more aware of how morals and values in education are being taught in our schools and for all of us to question our school boards further on just how this subject is being taught and if we really are in agreement with the way that it is being presented in our schools to the students. She concluded by saying that parents do have the right to police what a child learns morally in school. I can only suggest that if you have a child in school that you do contact your principal or school board member and learn more about this new approach of morals education. In a lot of ways, it is really quite frightening.

This Sunday, November 19 marks the hundredth anniversary of Queen Street United Church, Lindsay, and their guest speaker will be the moderator of the United Church, Dr. George M. Tuttle. As an added interest, two pastors from Korea who are visiting in the Bay of Quinte Conference area and guests of the United Church of Canada, will be present at this special anniversary service. While here, these two Koreans will have the opportunity of being with a Canadian veterinarian for part of a day, will visit a senior citizens home in Onemee and on Monday, November 20, after attending a lunch in their honour at Knox United Church Hall, Cobocok, they will also be taken to the Lions Community Hall to view the New Horizons Crafts and Arts Groups.

Our local postmistress, Mrs. Rotha Bryant, is $100 richer because one of the Wintario tickets that was purchased from her by an out-of-town gentleman won $10,000 recently in the draw. Congratulations to you both.

The newly formed, Norland Leathercraft Group is selling tickets at .50 cents each or three for $1. The draw is to be made December 19. First prize is a unique and unusual leather picture, second prize

"Temper is a quality that at a critical moment, brings out the best in steel and the worst in people."

On November 14, the Dorset Lions Club held a draw for a "Woodsmen Stove" for which they had been selling tickets for several months.

The lucky ticket holder was Paul Lowes of Innerkip, which is just four miles from Woodstock, where the stoves are manufactured. The stove was donated by the Stove House in Huntsville and the sale of tickets netted the club more than $1,000. The proceeds are being used for Camp Dorset, the Lions Dialyses camp. The Lions wish to thank all those who helped in this effort by buying tickets.

We are happy to report that Ted Lockman is at home and feeling well after spending some time in Huntsville Hospital.

On Saturday, November 4, the local Rangers, Guides and Brownies visited at The Pines and entertained the residents for an hour and a half, singing campfire songs and presenting the ladies with brooches and the men with bookmarks that the girls had created. The ladies and gentlemen at The Pines greatly enjoyed and appreciated the girls and their entertainment. Later the group visited the swimming pool at the Centennial Centre and had a fun time swimming, with several of the girls passing their swimming tests.

A shopping trip to Barrie, organized by the Dorset Senior Group, but including some who were not seniors, was greatly enjoyed on last Wednesday. It was a lovely day for shopping and the Georgian Mall and Bayfield Mall were both visited giving plenty of variety for the needs of the shoppers. The bus left Dorset at 8:30 a.m. and returned at 6 p.m. with a group of tired, but satisfied shoppers. A vote of thanks to Frank and Janette Large for working so hard to make this trip possible.

We wish to congratulate the members of Lake of Bays Council who will represent us for the next two years.

Malcolm Scott was returned as Mayor with 1,230 votes with his closest opponent having 297. Jim McKey was returned as Rideout councillor with 209 votes and his rival having 120. In the Township of Sherborne, Fred Baum and Don Shortreed went in by acclamation as reeve and deputy-reeve respectively and Joyce McKey was voted in as councillor with 118 votes. The other two councillors are from Oxtongue, namely incumbent Fran Gower and a newcomer Len Staines. Congratulations to all and may you have the clear sightedness and fortitude to deal with the issues involved in good government.

What cold windy weather we had on the weekend but I guess it's about time for old man winter to be rearing his (ugly?) head.

The Anglican Ladies and the Rangers, Guides and Brownies are holding their Christmas Bazaar on Wednesday, November 29 in the Dorset Community Centre at 7 p.m. Lots of Christmas goodies and gift suggestions. There will also be tea tables.

Maple Lake News

Sympathy goes out from all friends and relatives to the family of the late Diana Barjarow. We lost a wonderful daughter, sister, granddaughter and niece.

Tammy Maxwell, who had a car accident last Sunday, underwent surgery on Tuesday for a broken jaw at the St. Joseph's hospital in Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Sawyer and Ron have spent some time in Peterborough visiting Tammy Maxwell.

Kenny Fountain of Toronto spent this weekend at home with his family.

Richard and Shannon Harding spent the weekend visiting friends in Brampton.

I would like to congratulate our new reeve, Jim Harrison, new deputy-reeve, Elgin Stouffer and new councillors, Harry Davis, Roger Woods and Alvin Johnson. Regarding the liquor vote, our township voted in favour of liquor being sold in restaurants and at banquets.

Ernie Cooper left Tuesday morning for Fort Francis, where he will be working.

Mrs. Carol Wall and daughter, Allison, have gone to spend a week with her parents in Trenton.

The picture in last week's paper of Charlie Fader was with his great, great granddaughter, Kimberley Harding instead of Jerry Griffin, his grandson. The Echo has apologized and will print a correction this week.

Sheila Griffin drove to Peterborough on Wednesday to visit Tammy Maxwell in the hospital.

Don't forget the Maple Lake U.C.W. Christmas Bazaar and Bake Sale will be held on Saturday, December 2, at 1 p.m. at the Maple Lake United Church.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hill and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Junkin of Bobcaygeon called in to see Frank and Elaine Barjarow on Wednesday. They also wished Charlie Fader a happy birthday.

Larry and Kathy Castle and girls, along with Mrs. Alice Castle, came to spend a few hours on Grandpa, Charlie Fader's birthday.

Charlie and Grace Morrison also called to wish Charlie Fader a happy birthday. He also received many calls and birthday cards and a letter of congratulations from our MPP, John Eakins.

Friends from this area will be sorry to hear that Margaret Finney, who has been living in Toronto, is very sick and in the intensive care unit in the Scarborough Hospital. We all wish her a speedy recovery.

Don't forget that Welch's Store will be closed for two weeks beginning November 20 to December 4.

Friends of Emory Foster will be glad to learn that he is coming along quite nicely after heart surgery in Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Fader of Lindsay spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Redner.

Many friends and relatives called on Grace and Charlie Morrison to wish them much happiness on the occasion of their 25th wedding anniversary.

The wind and rain on Friday night was pretty bad. A newly built house owned by Bill Langman of Toronto caught on fire. When the firemen arrived they had the fire out in a short time, but our hydro was off for six hours. The men from the hydro told me they were very busy with a lot of trees down on the hydro line.

Thursday night's bingo at the Legion Hall saw a good crowd of nearly 150 in attendance.

The jackpot of $220 was split three ways. Marilyn Bartley of Norland, Mr. Lambert and a lady from Woodville were the lucky winners of the jackpot. Coming up on December 14, the door prizes will be turkeys so if you love bingo then make Thursdays a fun evening at the Legion Hall. Free cookies and tea will be served. The early bird bingo's jackpot receipts go into the Christmas party funds. The party for kids is held following the Santa Claus parade on December 17. Speaking of the parade, if you wish to enter a float, the parade marshal is Tom Taylor and you can phone him at 454-8604 or contact Jean Barkwell regarding details.

The parade will be forming up at the Flour and Feed Mill and will proceed from there out to the Legion Hall. The parade attracts more people each year and the Legion members work hard to make it a success. The kiddies always enjoy the Christmas party following it. So if you have a float to enter, be sure to make your entry confirmed right away and let's make it a success!

Little Robert Reese is home from hospital. Sort of weighted down in a cast up past his waist, but so happy to be home with mom and dad and family. That leg will soon be better, I'm sure!

Mrs. Jimmy Montgomery (Sandy) is a patient in Sunnybrook Hospital in Toronto. Our thoughts and prayers for you Sandy, and trust you will soon be well and home with Jimmy and the little ones.

The elections on Monday past were followed closely by more people than usual. On Somerville side, at the Orange Hall just down the street, counting of ballots lasted quite late into the evening. In fact, I can't recall when counting lasted for so long a time, as we usually knew the results an hour after the polling booth closed. Now, it's down to business for the elected and I'm sure the losers will not hold any animosity since there must always be losers as well as winners. Perhaps next time around, this year's losers will surface as winners should they care to run for election another term.

How nice to finally get a new phone book for the old ones are so out of date and tattered. There are so many new residents and they will be happy to have a listed number.

For parents of young children, kindergarten to Grade 3 ages, each Saturday morning from 11 to 12:30 p.m. in Norland Public Library, Dale Davey has planned a play, song and craft time for the youngsters. This is a learning as well as a fun occasion to which these boys and girls are invited to attend.

Norland bowling team standings after Game 1, Series 2, are: K. Watson with seven points, B. Maund, L. McLean and No. Chynoweth, all with five points, T. Watson, D. Boyce and L. Jewell with two points, B. Davey with no points. Ladies high single and triple, Marj Lee 295, 717; high average, R. Bryant 186; mens high single and triple, Jim Boyce 246, 635 and high average, H. Smith 195.

Judy LeCraw, Daughter of Jack and Dolly LeCraw, had the right number of seconds and won the Firemen's Hockey Pool on Saturday, November 11.

Our get well wishes go out to Jim Payne, co-owner of Shadow Lake Cottages, who has been in Ross Memorial Hospital for several weeks. We hope that your recovery is soon, Jim.

The brave who did not retreat to Florida found compensation in a month of terrific weather, roads free from ice and snow and the excitement of the election. Now the question, what to do when television is unbearable. How about a visit to the curling rink, where you can watch some very good games in progress from the comfort of the club room. This being a splendid winter sport, you may wish to join in the fun. Non-members may curl Friday or Saturday evenings. Group participation includes mixed couples Sunday and Monday nights, ladies Tuesday evenings and men on Thursdays.

Committee members. Library hours are Tuesday and Friday evenings 7 to 8 p.m. and Thursday and Friday afternoons 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

For our girls aged seven to 10, a gathering of the Brownies is being held once a week at the Lloyd Watson Memorial Centre. So far, 16 have registered and they are a very enthusiastic group. Mildred and Stan Archer are off to Toronto and London for a few days.

Jan McKay has had her mother, Mrs. Darling from Toronto visiting with her for the past week. Mrs. Darling enjoys her grandsons and likes spending time with them.

Some people from the community attended a going away party for Bill O'Reilly who is moving out west. Obviously, he didn't read the Toronto Star headline of a week or so ago which read, "Don't Go West, Young Man, They Don't Want You".

Laurie McKay has secured a position in Stratford, Ontario and will make her home there. Good luck, Laurie!

Thirty-two ladies attended a baby shower on Sunday afternoon at the home of Roan Barnhart in honour of her niece, Marilyn Skelding. She received many attractive and useful gifts and was very sincere in her speech of appreciation.

If you should happen to see an attractive red-head walking from Carnarvon to Maple Lake this week, don't offer her a ride as she is walking for exercise.

We have a line on a Cub leader for Carnarvon. Any boys from ages seven to 10 years interested in joining Cubs, watch this column for future information.

Saturday evening, my daughter and I attended a party at the home of Grace and Charlie Morrison at Maple Lake. The occasion was their 25th wedding anniversary. Grace and Charlie appear as much in love now as they were 25 years ago. Congratulations.

Don't forget the three Christmas bazaars coming up - Hyland Crest in Minden on Wednesday, November 22, Senior Citizens of Haliburton on Saturday, November 25 and Maple Lake U.C.W. on Saturday, December 2.

Minden U.C.W. held their annual luncheon and bazaar last Friday. The lunch was superb as usual and I came away with homemade bread and rolls and the cutest hand-crocheted hat.

Little Jennifer Hogg had the misfortune to have a Man breaks leg in crash

A 28-year-old Haliburton resident, Walter Powell, remains in Peterborough Civic Hospital with a broken right leg following a car-motorcycle mishap last Sunday at 12:30 p.m. on Basshaunt Lake Road near Eagle Lake.

Powell was riding his motorcycle west on the road when he collided just over the crest of a hill on a curve with a car driven by Robert W. Campbell, 39, of Toronto.

Damage to the motorcycle was estimated at $400, while the car received $800 damage.

The mishap was investigated by provincial constable

MD says parents spot vision problems

A Toronto vision specialist has challenged Canadian parents and teachers to help in the early detection of vision related learning disabilities. Dr. Dennis Bader, a Toronto optometrist specializing in children's vision, says early identification of symptoms of vision difficulties is a major factor in successful treatment. Dr. Bader's comments were made to the Fall Conference of the Ontario Association of Optometrists.

Recent studies have shown that 40 per cent of all grade school students fail to reach their academic potential due to vision handicaps. "Simply knowing that the learning problem is, in fact, a vision problem," says Dr. Bader, "is a major step in enabling parents, teachers, and others to understand the child's difficulties and help him avoid further physical complications and mental frustration." Symptoms of vision disabilities, are relatively easy to identify if a parent or teacher knows what to look for. But Dr. Bader warns that traditional vision screening methods generally used by schools fail to detect the problems of many school children. Parents and teachers are often misled, he said.

Resident hurt

Damage to his 1976 model car was estimated at $3,000. Provincial constable Barry Connelly investigated the accident.

and appreciate any help offered by the mothers of their charges. Now that the election is over, let's congratulate the losers. They spent a lot of time and some money telling the people about their ideas for change and improvement. A lot of folks agreed with them too, look at all the votes they received. There is a place for them now in this community. Lending their assistance and working for the many activities of the area will give them further insight into how things are run and they can prove their ability to provide good leadership. Another day, another election will render a second chance to govern.

into assuming a child has no vision problems because they have had a 20/20 rating on a Snellen Chart.

Such physical symptoms as reddened eyes or lids, excessive tear production, itching eyes or complaints of headaches in the forehead and temples, particularly when related to desk work or reading, indicate the need for a thorough, professional examination. Other symptoms of visual problems may be detected by observing a

Canadians spend millions on toys

Each year Canadians spend over $200-million on toys, primarily at Christmas. As the Christmas season nears, advertising of this year's new and improved models is reaching its peak. However, before purchasing toys this Christmas, here are several factors you should consider.

The child's age is one of the most important considerations. Because a child learns through play, toys have a role in the child's growth and development. A toy which requires skills greater or lesser than those of the child may result in frustration or boredom, rather than enjoyment, for the child. Parents should read instructions and assist the child in using the toy properly.

The durability of a toy should also be assessed when purchasing. Brittle plastic toys may break easily. Wooden toys should be well-constructed using screws or glue, rather than nails. Especially for infants and toddlers, toys should be washable.

child's behaviour. Does the child turn his head while reading across the page, or lose his place often, or use a finger or marker to keep his place? Is his attention span unusually short while reading or copying? Is eye hand coordination poor?

Speaking to the Fall Conference of Optometrists, Dr. Bader, formerly a teacher of Pediatric Optometry and Learning Disabilities at the University of Waterloo School of Optometry, said that improved recognition of these Another measure of a good toy is whether it provides enjoyment to the child. It should suit his interests and abilities. Often a simple toy, which requires the child to do something himself, is more stimulating than a wind-up model which does everything for him.

A final factor to consider is the safety of the toy. Under the Hazardous Products Act, Consumer and Corporate Affairs Canada regulates hidden hazards in toys. Sharp metal edges, small parts and highly leaded paint are not permitted on toys for small children. However, parents are also responsible for ensuring that toys are used safely. Statements on toy packages, such as "not recommended for children under three", should be followed.

A toy which was designed for a school-age child can be dangerous in the hands of a younger child. Miniature dolls and small toys which help to develop co-ordination in an older child may be accidentally swallowed by a pre-schooler. Older children should, therefore, be encouraged to put their toys away, out of the reach of younger brothers or sisters. Toys which are safe when new may become unsafe through use. Parents should examine toys regularly for sharp edges, splinters, loose parts and defective wiring which may injure a child. Damaged toys should be repaired or discarded.

Each year, the Canadian Toy Testing Council, an independent voluntary organization, conducts tests of new toys. Toys are used, by children, in private homes, day care centres and nurseries, and their safety, play-value and durability is assessed.

The results are published in a booklet entitled "Good Toys" which lists over 600 recommended toys, including a brief description, approximate price and manufacturer of each.

PC wants permanent voters list

Bruce McCaffrey, Progressive Conservative MPP for Armourdale, introduced a private member's resolution requesting that the Ontario Government establish a permanent voters list for provincial elections. McCaffrey stated that such a method of registering voters would prove to be more efficient for enumeration, lead to accuracy and reduce costs. Under the present method of enumeration, voters are enumerated prior to each provincial election.

McCaffrey stated that it was felt by some members who had participated in a previous debate on the question of permanent voters lists that the names gathered during the six day enumeration period were not complete. In his view, the time allotted was too short to produce a high degree of accuracy, especially when names are acquired during those time of year when many voters are away.

"It was pointed out that when an election at one level of government closely followed one at another level, there were so many repetitions of the enumeration process that it was ludicrous to attempt to justify the large expenses involved. These problems are common to all of Canada, and the search for a registration system which will economize and maintain accuracy has already been undertaken by a few of the provinces. Recently, Quebec and Alberta, and Prince Edward Island before them, have adopted a method of gathering voters lists on a continual basis through the use of municipal assessment rolls," stated McCaffrey.

"A continual roll could be instituted as follows. Either the Chief Electoral Officer, or some central authority would set up polling subdivision boundaries consistent between municipal and provincial governments. Once these were established the annual assessment enumeration, modified slightly to include certain facts such as citizenship, would be sent to a central provincial computer bank. Ensuing annual enumerations would then serve as a tool to correct the list held there. Additions would be entered and also deletions after non-forwardable notices had been mailed out to those whom the enumerators could not locate through interviews or other information," said McCaffrey.

"The advantages of the continuous Roll System are several. In the first place, a continual Roll, regardless of the degree to which it is updated, ensures that the names of concerned, stable citizens are not, due to a temporary absence, accidentally removed from the voter's list. It also would, as I have said, monitor changes of address and automatically register migrant voters who may not themselves do so," he said.

"Secondly, I think the calibre of the canvassers themselves would improve a great deal. They would not be politically nominated, nor would they be politically motivated. During the assessment period the call-back system could be extended and the enumeration card system improved so that a higher percentage of the eligible voters would appear on the list," he added.

"Finally, the use of continual electoral rolls would mean that those citizens who have not reached the age of majority would be recorded without appearing on the printed list.

Once they attained voting age their names would automatically be transferred to the electoral roll," said McCaffrey.

Report from Parliament

response to Conservative Opposition pressure for a budget than in the desire to spark up the economy and create jobs.

For instance, tax reductions should have been effective immediately in order to stimulate consumer purchasing and thereby increase productivity in manufacturing and industry.

There should have been relief for home buyers, in the form of the Conservative party's proposals to allow deduction of mortgage interest and property taxes from income taxes.

I would have liked to see an increase in grants for medical research as well as assistance for industrial research and development. Canada's medical research potential is being wasted, and is in fact being eroded because of a lack of sufficient research funds.

I would also have liked to see a reduction in capital gains taxes to give an incentive to investors in the manufacturing sector. Experience has shown that the return from these taxes is not sufficient to justify leaving it in place.

All in all, while I like some of the provisions in the budget, I would have preferred an action budget to one that simply holds the line.

Haliburton Highlights by Creighton Feir

The local stores are bustling with activity these days as Christmas approaches and most merchants we have been talking with tell us that business is picking up and that they are looking for more of the same before the end of the year.

The Dysart Community Centre at Haliburton is a hive of activity these days and ice time is at a premium. With hockey games, practices, figure skating and public skating things are kept very busy.

Parents' Night will be held at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School in Haliburton tonight (Wednesday, November 22 from 7:00 p.m. to 9:30 p.m. Appointments are not necessary.

The Haliburton Girls Gymnastic Club will be holding a six week course at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School starting November 23 with the instructors being, Laura Aymong, Liz Langdon and Schepers.

The Haliburton Highlands Cross Country Ski Club will be having their annual general meeting on December 5, 1978 at 7:30 p.m. at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School at Haliburton. All new members are welcome.

I would like to offer my congratulations to the winning candidates in Monday's election in the municipality of Dysart et al. The council received a mandate when the three incumbents running for office were returned. Harold Bannon, deputy-reeve, Roy Brohm, Ward 1, Gary McKnight, Ward II, and Reeve, Murray Fearrey and Jack Denholm from Ward III received acclamations. Our congratulations to our four members who were elected to the Haliburton County Board of Education, Len Salvatori, Earl Cooper, Nancy Stinson and Derrell Stamp.

It would certainly be nice if the local council could see fit to put up some nice decorated lights for the Christmas season along Highland Street in Haliburton. I believe council have talked about this matter and now we will have to wait for the results.

Nearly 350 people were on hand at the Royal Canadian Legion in Haliburton on Saturday evening, November 11 for the dedication and official opening of their new extension to the present building. I would like to extend my congratulations and best wishes to Branch 129 of the Royal Canadian Legion in Haliburton on the completion of the new banquet hall facilities. The Legion hall in Haliburton is one that all of us who live in Haliburton County should be justly proud of.

No parking will be permitted on snow routes which interfere with snow removal operations in the Municipality of Dysart et al. Failure to observe the regulation will result in the removal, by wrecker of the offending vehicle, authorized by the Road Superintendent, Howard Roberts, and impounding the said vehicle until all towing fees are paid.

Damage light in fire

Quick action by volunteer firefighters from the Stanhope Township Fire Department prevented the total loss by fire of a summer cottage last Friday.

The alarm was turned into the fire hall at 7:50 p.m. and within eight minutes the firefighters arrived at the blaze of a cottage, owned by Meryle Cox of Toronto, located off Highway 530 near Carnarvon.

Fire damage was kept to a minimum, but the two-bedroom frame structure did suffer smoke damage. Deputy-fire Chief Gordon Martin estimated damage at $3,000.

He said firefighters had the blaze out within 10 minutes after arriving on the scene with 12 men and a pumper truck. A faulty electric box is believed to be the cause of the fire, said the deputy-fire chief.

The Guild Station Century Celebrations dance and midnight buffet will be held this coming Friday evening, November 24 from 9:00 to 1:00 a.m. at the Haliburton Legion Hall. Music will be supplied by "Phase 3" - $10.00 per person. The Guild Pre-Christmas Exhibition and Sale will be held from Friday, November 24 through until Tuesday, November 28 at the Ol' Barn Tavern. A Century Railroad Exhibit will be held at the new museum at Glebe Park featuring a model railway display, railroad artifacts and memorabilia on November 24, 25 and 26. The Senior Citizens Century Tea and Bazaar is set for Saturday, November 25 in the arena auditorium. Century Celebrations commemorate the 100th anniversary of the arrival of the railroad in Haliburton. Proceeds from the dance and donations are in support of "The Guild Station Gallery".

Emmerson elected president

Bill Emmerson, President of Emmerson Lumber Limited in Haliburton, has been elected President of Dynasty

Building Materials Limited of Unionville, Ontario.

He is the first president of the new buying group and has been actively engaged in the lumber and building materials business since 1959.

Active in both business and community affairs, he is also president of Halcan Holdings Limited, a director of Redkenn Development Limited and a director of Pawlaw Logging Limited. He is a past president of the Rotary Club of Haliburton, a past reeve of the Municipality of Dysart et al and has served on several important committees of the Lumber and Building Materials Association of Ontario. He is currently serving on the Association's Materials Handling Committee.

New underground cables, to be placed inside these pipes, will lead from the Bell office in the village to Haliburton Highlands Secondary School. Work is expected to begin within the next couple of weeks.

Oshawa area men charged

A 23-year-old Oshawa resident, Kenneth Nicholson, and Gordon Nicholson, 22, of RR 1, Gilmore, have been charged with possession of stolen property over $200.

The pair were charged after they found property, which was stolen from the liquor control board outlet at Haliburton, in a gravel pit in Donald.

The liquor was stolen in a break-in earlier this year at the outlet.

Radio club disbands

On October 12, 1978, the executive members of the Haliburton Area Radio Club met to once more discuss the state of the organization.

At a general meeting of the Club held in February, to which eventually 14 people did show up, it was decided to try once again to keep things going. Suggestions were made at that time as to what could be tried to generate interest and hopefully increase general membership attendance at meetings. A resumption of net calls was the first thing to be attempted under the direction of one of our more interested members. This was tried and after a couple or so, the interest again dropped. A meeting, called for May 7, accomplished the same as had numerous meetings called previous to the February meeting. Only half a dozen people came out - all executive and a few of the other members.

The general consensus of the executive of the Haliburton Area Radio Club during the ensuing months, culminated at the meeting on October 12, when it appeared no one was interested in the club anymore.

Therefore, the remaining executive members in attendance, decided that the radio club would disband as of October 12, 1978. All monies remaining in the treasury are to be donated to a worthy cause as was set down in the club constitution and bylaws. It was the decision of the executive to donate the funds to help to equip the Dysart Rescue Bus with a set of pry jaws which are badly needed and a necessary piece of equipment for this type of rescue vehicle. It was with much regret that the executive made the decision to disband the radio club, but it was a case of the executive making the right decision because there was no general membership interest, participation, suggestions, or help in club endeavors.

Stolen property recovered

A grocery order computer and a pocket calculator, valued at $1,015, were stolen between late last Wednesday and early last Thursday from the Red and White Store in Haliburton Village.

Provincial police from the Minden detachment said the store was entered through an opening in a wall due to construction of an addition to the building.

The computer was found behind the IGA store by a nine-year-old, who was playing in the area last Thursday. The pocket calculator has not yet been located.

Provincial constable Weldon Popp is investigating the occurrence.

Haliburton Highlights

The following write-up was taken from the Highland Rotooter, the weekly bulletin put out by the Rotary Club of Haliburton. It was written by the bulletin editor of the week, Dale Robinson.

Remembrance Day has come and gone and it's nice to see that more people are taking time to remember our war dead in a dignified manner. We, as Canadians, living in undoubtedly the "best" society in the world, owe a great deal to these young people who sacrificed their lives so that we might enjoy the freedoms and luxuries that we have today. The legion service at the cenotaph on Saturday was well attended and very impressive. Congratulations to those who organized and participated in the ceremony. It was too bad to see cars driving right through the gathering; perhaps this can be remedied next year. Perhaps in remembering our war dead we should think about these lines from the poet Pope, "Honour and shame from no condition rise; act well your part; there all the honour lies."

Our congratulations to the winners of the Echo's "Cash Until Christmas" draw, Mr. Chessel Sisson of RR 1, Haliburton, Mr. Brant Stamp of RR 1, Haliburton and Mr. Ronald Carnochan of Oshawa. The draw was made by Reeve, Murray Fearrey.

All those in the village who are not already connected to the sanitary sewage system are making a last ditch effort to get hooked on before the frost sets in. The local plumbers and backhoe operators have their work cut out for them.
